TOPIC 6: CIGARETTES

Cigarettes are made up of two main components, tobacco and nicotine. Tobacco is the brown grassy like substance in cigarettes. Nicotine is the addictive drug that is in tobacco.

THE EFFECTS

Nicotine is a stimulant drug, when smoked it gives the smoker a 'nicotine rush' and makes the heart beat faster. When trying cigarettes for the first time a person may feel sick and dizzy and may start to cough a lot. Smokers who have not had a cigarette in a while may become agitated. People often associate cigarettes with relieving stress.

THE RISKS

Smoking as we know can cause many different illnesses for a person, from mild to severe. Smoking cigarettes causes a build up of tar in the lungs, this comes from the tobacco. It means that a person may have reduced oxygen levels and may struggle to breath. Prolonged use can cause serious health issues including gum disease, lung cancers and can also increase the chance of complications after surgery such as wounds not healing. Smoking does not only damage the persons smoking but also those around them, this is known as second hand smoke.

THE LAW

Within the law tobacco or cigarettes are legal to buy for those who are 18 and over. They are illegal to those under 18 to buy, smoke and sell.
